I will be using the iClicker student response system in class this term. iClicker helps me to understand what you know and gives everyone a chance to participate in class. I (will/will not) use iClicker to keep track of attendance; please see the attendance policy on page (#) of the syllabus. Participation with iClicker will account for (x% of your final grade). I will drop (#) of the lowest scores to account for times you forget to bring your clicker to class.

You may purchase one of the following models:

iClicker 2

How to register:
To receive credit for the responses you submit with iClicker, you must register by the drop/add deadline, (Date). Students who register after this time will not receive credit. Click here (https://wiki.millersville.edu/x/YYmGAg) for a guide on student remote registration.

Register your clicker within our Learning Management System (D2L)
You must register your clicker within D2L. Do not register your clicker on iclicker.com. If you do, I will not be able to match your responses with your name and you will not receive credit.

Cheating
I consider bringing a fellow student’s iClicker to class to be cheating and a violation of the University Honor Code. If you are caught with a remote other than your own or have votes in a class that you did not attend, you will forfeit all clicker points and may face additional disciplinary action.

University of Colorado Colorado Springs Syllabus Example
Click here to view an example of a syllabus used at the University of Colorado Colorado Springs.

University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Syllabus Examples
Click here for an index of faculty syllabi and syllabus excerpts from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.